

I just installed VeryUtils ScanOCR software. The program works fine except for the scan option.

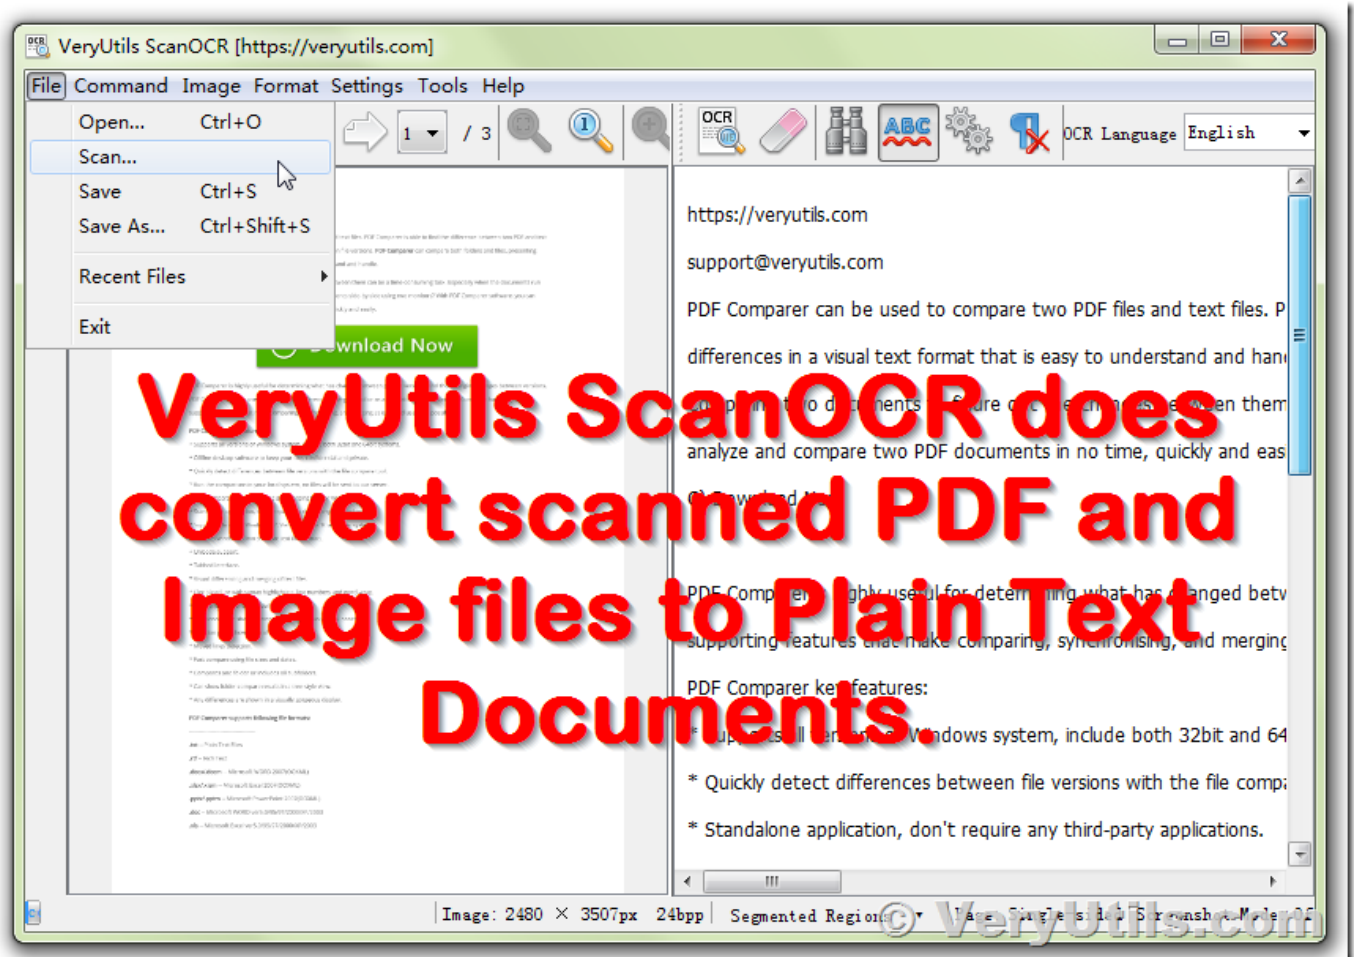

I did have two scanners and uninstalled one of the scanners. There must of been a file that the program picked up because when I select scan it looks for the old scanner. I can not find a setting to select a scanner. For some reason the program does not see my scanner. How do I make the program select the current scanner?

Could I uninstall the program and reinstall? If I do will the serial number still be good?
